

NCCD Conference on Children, Youth, and Families

How many Californians (or others) understand what is taking place in these conferences, and who is running them? Suggestion: Either stay on top of the larger foundations (2 listed below) and their collective (coordinated) agenda towards (basically) ALL major public institutions, and related policies, OR check out the minor nonprofits and for-profits involved (one of each listed below, and fiscal operations AND self-labeling OR start taking the material exposing the "CAFR" (Comprehensive Annual Financial Report) habitual mis-labeling for purposes of continuing to bill the public for what otherwise could be self-sustaining operations, across-the-board (that is, understand that "Budget Deficit" refers only to "Budget" not total assets. or, best, find out where the assets (in all sectors) are being held, and how. Pick somewhere and start. I know I did... These comments by and proprietary (co. 2016) to Let's Get Honest @ my blog (over 680 posts and 33 pages + detailed links to supporting evidence throughout, since 2009) http://familycourtmatters.wordpress.com. For website minus commentaries, see NCCDglobal.org; the October, 2016 was still seen near the top mid-December 2016./LGH

News of Interest

NCCD Blog

Events

Press Inquiries

Media for a Just Society Awards

NCCD Conference on Children, Youth, and Families

Advisory Committee

2016 NCCD Conference Photo Gallery

Thank you to everyone who made the trip to California for the 2016 NCCD Conference on Children, Youth, and Families! It was a great week, full of learning, socializing, and inspiration for our work. We are grateful to have spent this time with you.

NCCD extends special thanks to our conference advisory committee, our Board of Directors, and our sponsors: Casey Family Programs, The California Endowment, the North American Resource Center for Child Welfare, and AutoMon.

Pictured: Keynote speaker Dr. William C. Bell, President and CEO of Casey Family Programs, and Kathy Park, CEO of NCCD.

See my separate annotated image

So far, I see that "Automon" is in Scottsdale, AZ and is an LLC. Software (proprietary) for use in SEVERAL public sectors/ institutions (and TA/consulting regarding its use) also a major part of NCCD's agenda

I am blogging the existence of THREE separate 501@3s with common board/officers all from the same street address (basically) in Columbus Ohio, formed in 1979, 2000 and 2003, from the start, by Ronald C. Hughes w/Judith S. Rycus, who have also authored a "Field Guide" (in several volumes) to Child Welfare Training. The money is being recirculated among 3 entities, with the one being "sheltered" (NACCW is a cover) the one taking its primary support from Ohio's DFJS (Dept. of Job and Family Services), which no doubt also has a welfare (and responsible fatherhood) connection.