

to get the drop-down menu, I had to do a window (not selective screenshot) these black rectangles simply obscure some of the personal information on my device (like other windows open and what kind of browser) but I left open the URL (middle part) and date (2017), top-right.

“NCCWE.org/BPR/Toolkits.html”

Public resources (HHS) + foundatn grants too to pay Public Universities (in this case, CUNY/ Hunter College SSW w/SUNY) to pay private nonprofits (American Humane Assoc (since 1870s and takes credit for pushing through CAPTA and more, National Fatherhood Initiative (since 1994 and in PA &/or MD, though not consistently staying registered, and I found another one, Natl' Family Preservation Network (NFPN.org // since 1992 Phyllis Martens Exec Di) in Idaho) to SELL their trainings, operating tax-exempt.

I guess “BPR” must mean Best Practice Resources,” starting with Child Welfare Info Gateway, and HHS/ACF/Children’s Bureau website

Youth Permanency Toolkit
 This web-based toolkit from the National Center for Child Welfare Excellence (NCCWE) provides a historical perspective on youth permanency as well as current definitions. This toolkit also provides information on the adolescent brain. Based on a review of the literature and current practice, the toolkit is organized into five core components. The toolkit discusses each core component and provides related resources and policy examples. The toolkit also includes an organizational self study which child welfare agencies can use to review their policies and practices and identify technical assistance and training needs.

NFPN.org = EIN# 13-3715995 (legal name IFPS). Main income now is selling trainings (not contribs) assets barely $50K

- Working with Siblings in Foster Care Toolkit
 This new web-based toolkit from the National Center for Child Welfare Excellence (NCCWE) provides an overview of what we know about sibling relationships for children and youth in foster

Well, since HHS/ACF/CB distributed $7.7M to this center (under its prior name, NRCPPFC) 2009-2014, prioritizing ChildWelfareInfo Gateway (even with all its Fatherhood Engagemt & “Mother”-omission) language & NQIC-NRF resources buried deep thereunder(as my other images show) shows respect for the financiers.
