WIDGETS: This 12,600-word post, first published 2/24/2014, contains essentially two or three of this blog's sidebar text-boxes ("widgets"), each designed for total strangers, novices, and/or followers. They are there to alert, expose new readers to key concepts and themes by immersing them into the narrative, and leaving footprints (links) for the curious and to keep reminding us of basic information which has been forgotten through advocacy-group neglect over (as of 2014) a period of 15-20 years minimum.

To understand this information is also to get a grasp on the essence of the relationship between "government" and the individual, and to call more individuals to wise up to how this works.
