Fall, 2014 update: This 12,000-word post is "sticky" (stuck to the top of the blog) because it illustrates how any special interest group already involving certain sectors of civil servants or other positions of influence (for example, at law schools) can lobby state legislatures and US Congress year after year through nonprofit associations. I have written an update and expect to publish it as a separate post, soon. In this post also see:

“ This gets "more than" interesting when I looked up the incorporator — just one person, Joel A. Shawn, Esq. of "Friedman, Shawn, Sloan & Ross." (1981) filing. Because the California OAG site doesn't display previous to 2000 or so (and nothing previous to about 2004 is even showing on this nonprofit), I see no mention of Dr. [Joan B.] Kelly — although I'm sure the paperwork is on file.
